The one-millionth 911

Rolling off the assembly line in May, the one-millionth Porsche marks an unprecedented accomplishment for Porsche. As a core part of the brand's sporty DNA, the emblematic 911 flagship sports car has played a leading role in forging Porsche's global identity, helping make it one of the most successful sports car manufacturers in both China and the world.

The stunning millionth-model, delicately crafted by the talented Porsche Exclusive Manufaktur as a tribute to the very first 911 designed in 1963, boasts features such as a distinguished Irish Green exterior, houndstooth seats, a handmade mahogany steering wheel and silver accents on the dash and exterior. It deftly captures the timeless spirit of the original while packing in a modern day turbo flat-six engine that makes it as powerful as it is graceful.

The jubilee comes as Porsche is experiencing incredible accomplishments both in China and across the world. The Porsche 911 continues to be a brand icon for Porsche in no small part due to the Chinese market, which is now Porsche's largest, while the 718 Boxster has also seen increasing popularity in Mainland China.

The one-millionth 911 will continue on its world tour before eventually settling at its final home at the Porsche Museum in Stuttgart.
